We hope that after two successful installations of the South Florida Jazz Hall of Fame inductees, you’re beginning to expect the unexpected along with the expected. Phenomenal music, extraordinary musicians, jazz aficionados, fans, and entrepreneurs. They were all present and accounted for Sunday, October 23, at the Caleb Center.

Although Melton was scheduled to be installed into the South-Fla-JHOF in June of next year, we felt the need to be a part of the healing process and decided that now was the time. This organization exists because South Florida has bragging rights. OK. Healing process, bragging rights, let’s do it. We also took this opportunity to join South Florida in contributing to his rising medical costs, and this became a fun fund raiser with a twist. It was such an easy thing to do. The musicians gladly donated all the proceeds from their CD sales, and our stellar audience was more than glad to purchase them. Also, all monies collected from ticket sales and miscellaneous items were donated.

From the first note on the saxophone, the room was on fire. Brother, Jesse Jones, Jr. (2009 HOF), Mike Levine, Paul Shewchuk, and James Cotman, the host band, were awesome, they put the pots on. That’s not all, the band was reinforced by the Mustafa brothers, Yemin and Melton Jr., and the fiery fingers of percussionist Daniel McCleod. Now, Silvano Monasterios joined these guys for a couple of tunes, and took it to yet another level. They were “hot”. You know Jesse and his scat vocals, got the people all in a frenzy, well, The Mel Dancy (2010 HOF), and his tromphonia had them laughing and crying at the same time. Their emotions didn’t know how to behave.

As the patrons came in, they inquired as to whether or not Melton would actually be there. Nobody could answer that. But, suddenly, there he was. It was magic. He was on the stage, horn in mouth, honoring the very people who came to honor him. As a special dedication to the house, he played “You Are So Beautiful”. It was powerful. You would have been hard-pressed to find a dry eye in the house. I’d also like to note that this was a family affair.

It seemed that The entire Mustafa/Jones family was in the house…in full support. “My cup runnith over”…. Among the stories he told was one of his first encounter with Ira Sullivan (2010HOF). Dr. Charles Austin (2010HOF), one of his childhood mentors, led him by the hand to hear Ira Sullivan play. That was one of the turning points in his life. Wouldn’t you know, right then, entered Ira Sullivan. I tell you, these are some of the moments that make it all worthwhile.

Tracy Fields, the current voice of Evenin’ Jazz on WLRN, and Len Pace (2010HOF), the former (retired) voice of Evenin’ Jazz on WLRN, were the MC’s for the evening, and in their unique style, somehow got us to realize that our work was done….for the moment. Of course nobody wanted to stop, but as Ira played the first note of “Amazing Grace” followed by Mark (Berner), the guys, and moi, the writing was on the wall.

During the past six months (or so) The South Florida Community has come to the aid of one of it’s own, one who has spent a lifetime trying to make the world a better place thru music. That is a beautiful thing, and as it should be. I am proud to be a South Floridian. In his acceptance speech, Melton mentioned that this is the kinda thing that happens to other people….not you, not I. But, this is just the sort of thing that does happen…it could happen to you, or I….as it happened to him…..at any time. On this day, Sunday, October 23rd, I was told that there were no less than four jazz events going on between the hours of 4 and 7PM. There were many choices….many of you chose to be with us. Our house and our hearts were full. Thank you for supporting our efforts.

Don’t forget, in June, 2012: Jazz Hall of Fame will install:

The Billy Marcus Quartet                         Ms. Nancy Murphy, Erny’s (Jazztaurant) Posthumously
Billy Marcus, Piano                                  Billy Rolle, Big Band Leader/Saxophone..Posthumously
Eric Allison, Saxophone/Flute                        William (Bill) Peeples, Drums..Posthumously
Don Mosley, Bass                                        Richard “Blue” Mitchell….Posthumously
Gary Duchaine, Drums

Many thanks to many people who believe and have vision and faith in what we are doing. Thank you VERY BIG for helping us to make this the success we are claiming. Without you, we could not have done it.

South Florida Jazz Hall of Fame
FEATURING SJO MEMBER MUSICIAN – Mr. Ira Sullivan

Review taken from artist’s website www.irasullivan.com

Hyperbole surrounds Ira Sullivan. It is evident in both his music and his life. His talent has been called "Pure lyric," "Fire," "Formidable," "Complex," "Ornate," "Unparalleled," "Haunting," or more simply, "Legend." Some reviewers say he is a musical genius; others say this is an understatement. They cite his ability to pick up a strange instrument and, within a few days, to be as conversant with it as if he had been playing it for years. World class multi-instrumentalist Ira Sullivan plays trumpet, flugelhorn, peckhorn, tenor, alto, and soprano saxophones, flute, and an occasional round of drums, all of them impeccably and not as a gimmick. A master of almost the entire range of brass and reed instruments, he is known for his ability to come in cold and turn in a stellar performance.

Ira is widely recorded and tours on the national and international jazz circuits. A five-time Grammy nominee, he serves as a panelist for the National Endowment for the Arts. As a clinician, lecturer, and adjudicator in jazz workshops at universities and schools across the country and abroad, he finds that the History of Jazz programs that he initiated while attending high school in Chicago are now being replicated in many of these institutions. One if his current projects is an ensemble he calls the INTER/OUTER CONTINENTAL JAZZ QUINTET. Together, this unique and multi-ethnic group expresses a wide spectrum of the jazz milieu, dipping freely into both traditional and uncommon territory. Ira Sullivan feels that music is one of the finest gifts God has bestowed upon mankind. One of his greatest joys is leading Jazz Ves- pers at the many churches he plays, where the congregations share his belief that there is a dynamic spiritual connotation to this most Ameri- can of musical styles. It is this spiritual impulse that most clearly defines Ira Sullivan's music. For forty years, he has ended his performances all over the world with the venerable hymn "Amazing Grace," a soulful salute to the Spirit within.

[Summarized from online music biography sites]:
Born on May 1st, 1931 in Washington, D.C., Ira Sullivan is a bop jazz trumpeter, flugelhornist, flautist, saxophonist, composer and mentor, perhaps best known by the masses for his work with St. Xavier High School's "Out of the Blue". Taught trumpet by his father and saxophone by his mother, he played both in 1950s Chicago with such seminal figures as Charlie "Bird" Parker, Lester Young, Wardell Gray and Roy Eldridge, garnering a reputation as a fearsome bebop soloist. After playing briefly with Art Blakey (1956), and mastering alto and baritone saxophone, Sullivan moved south to Florida and out of the spotlight in the early 1960s.

Reluctant to travel, he may have limited his opportunities to play with musicians of the first rank, but Sullivan continued to play in the Miami area, often in schools and churches and also made contact with local, younger players, notably Jaco Pastorius and Pat Metheny. This led to teaching and to a broadening of his own musical roots to include the lessons of John Coltrane's music and elements of jazz rock. With the addition of flute and soprano saxophone to his armory, Sullivan moved to New York and in 1980 formed a quintet with legendary bop trumpeter Red Rodney. Resisting the temptation to follow current trends and play the music of their youth, Sullivan and Rodney worked on new material and fostered young talent to produce some fresh and stimulating music.

Ira and his longtime friend and collaborator, Stu Katz, jazz pianist and vibraphonist, co-led a multi-night performance at Joe Segal's Jazz Showcase in Chicago. The highly anticipated, live recording of some of those performances has just been released and is a powerful and exciting sample of ageless mastery, creativity and musi- cality! From the seriously cool swing of Cut #1, written by Sullivan, – "Blues Two Views" - throughout the entire recording, this is Jazz at it’s timeless best! (VP Holly’s opinion!) Run, don’t walk, directly to www.irasullivan.com.
